6. Regulation of the field of viticulture and winemaking

7.

8. The draft law covers all key aspects of grape and wine production, regulates the wine register, the register of receipts and issues, regulates traditional terms, aromatised wine products, the wine evaluation procedure, the appointment of authorized organizations and laboratories for the wine sector, organoleptic evaluation of wine, labelling, isotopic analysis, wine trade, unfair business practices, and control and criminal provisions.

9. The draft Wine Act comprehensively and systematically regulates the fields of viticulture and winemaking, as the current legislation, adopted in 2006, does not allow for the effective implementation of EU legislation due to its obsolescence. Although the current law was amended in 2011, 2012 and 2013, the rules at EU level have changed significantly since then. Due to these changes, a new law is necessary to properly adapt national legislation to EU requirements.
