5. BAW Code of Practice Frost Resistance Tests for Concrete (MFB), 2025 edition

6. The BAW-MFB describes the testing of the frost resistance and the freeze-thaw de-icing salt resistance test of concrete and spray mortar/shotcrete.

8. The BAW-MFB applies to the testing of the frost resistance and the freeze-thaw de-icing salt resistance test of concrete and spray mortar/shotcrete as well as of RM/RC and SRM/SRC repair products for new construction and repair of hydraulic structures.

9. The BAW-MFB ensures uniform testing (sample preparation, test execution and performance assessment) and thus a comparable level of performance of the concretes, shotcrete and repair mortar used for waterway constructions. As performance tests, the tests are a necessary part of the proof of suitability and usability required by ZTV-W LB 215 and LB 219. The current need for revision resulted from adaptations to technical developments (reference rules which also concern the ZTV-W) and, in particular, new findings on the conduct of tests for the simultaneous measurement of moisture absorption, internal structural damage and surface weathering described in the BAW-MFB (specifying the assessment criteria and statistical evaluation).
