5. Amendment to the Commodities Act Regulations on amusement and playground equipment in connection with the adjustment of the scope and the updating of regulations

6. Amusement and playground equipment

7.

8. Article I of the draft decree contains technical requirements. The amendment to the regulation is intended to achieve the following:

- greater safety for consumers using high-risk recreational equipment, such as tree-top adventure courses, zip lines and recreational go-kart tracks (the new 'active equipment' category) and trampoline parks, through the introduction of periodic assessments or periodic inspections;
- greater safety for consumers of mass-produced equipment through the introduction of a periodic review of type certificates, to prevent outdated safety requirements relating to the prototype or the production process from remaining in force indefinitely.

For the sake of completeness, it is noted that Article 13d of the Commodities Act contains a mutual recognition clause. The principle of mutual recognition entails that an EU Member State shall not ban in its own territory the sale of goods that have been legally brought onto the market in another EU Member State on the grounds that the goods do not meet its own national regulations. It is important, however, that the legitimate public interests guaranteed by the national requirements in force are sufficiently protected. The principle of mutual recognition is included in the explanatory memorandum to the regulation.

9. This regulation sets out safety requirements for amusement and playground equipment. The requirements imposed on activity equipment, amusement equipment and playground equipment are an appropriate measure to protect public health, human life and the safety of consumers.

9a. The requirements imposed on activity equipment, amusement equipment and playground equipment are an appropriate measure to protect public health, human life and the safety of consumers.

9b. The measures provided for by that regulation, even if they were restrictive of trade, are justified on grounds of the protection of public health, human life and consumer protection. The aim of the regulation is to achieve a high level of protection of the health and safety of consumers. The proposed measures contribute to ensuring the safety of equipment for play or entertainment and, therefore, to reducing the number of (serious) accidents involving this equipment.

9c. The measure is appropriate and proportionate in the light of the objective of protecting public health.
